MEMORANDUM AND ORDER

This criminal case is before the Court on the defendant's motion for a sentence reduction [Docs. 22, 27]. In the defendant's motion, the defendant requests that the Court resentence him pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(2) and in accordance with Amendment 782 and Amendment 788 to the United States Sentencing Guidelines Manual. The government has responded [Doc. 28]. The government defers to the Court's discretion whether and to what extent to grant any such reduction, subject to the limitations of 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(2) and section 1B1.10 of the United States Sentencing Guidelines Manual.

I. Standard of Review

"Federal courts are forbidden, as a general matter, to modify a term of imprisonment once it has been imposed, but the rule of finality is subject to a few narrow exceptions." Freeman v. United States, 131 S. Ct. 3685, 2690 (2011) (internal citation and quotation marks omitted). One exception is identified in 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(2):

[I]n the case of a defendant who has been sentenced to a term of imprisonment based on a sentencing range that has subsequently been lowered by the Sentencing Commission . . . , the court may reduce the term of imprisonment, after considering the factors set forth in section 3553(a) to the extent that they are applicable, if such a reduction is consistent with applicable policy statements issued by the Sentencing Commission.

The United States Supreme Court has interpreted § 3582(c)(2) as setting forth two requirements for a sentence reduction. First, “the defendant [must] ha[ve] been sentenced to a term of imprisonment based on a sentencing range that has subsequently been lowered by the Sentencing Commission[.]” United States v. Riley, 726 F.3d 756, 758 (6th Cir. 2013) (internal quotation marks and citation omitted). Second, “such reduction [must be] consistent with applicable policy statements issued by the Sentencing Commission.” Id. (internal quotation marks omitted). If the reviewing court determines that the defendant is eligible for a sentence reduction, then “[t]he court may then ‘consider whether the authorized reduction is warranted, either in whole or in part, according to the factors set forth in § 3553(a).’” United States v. Thompson, 714 F.3d 946, 949 (6th Cir. 2013) (quoting Dillon v. United States, 560 U.S. 817, 826 (2010)).

In determining whether a defendant has been sentenced to a term of imprisonment based on a sentencing range that has subsequently been lowered by the Sentencing Commission, the Court must first determine “the amended guideline range that would have been applicable to the defendant had the relevant amendment been in effect at the time of the initial sentencing.” Dillon, 560 U.S. at 827 (internal quotation marks and citation omitted); see also U.S. Sentencing Guidelines Manual § 1B1.10(b)(1). Other than substituting Amendment 782 for the corresponding provision applicable when the defendant was originally sentenced, the Court “shall leave all other guideline application decisions unaffected.” Id. And the Court “shall not” reduce a defendant’s term of imprisonment to a term “less than the minimum of the amended guideline range,” nor to a term “less than the term of imprisonment the defendant has already served.” Id. § 1B1.10(b)(2)(A), (C).¹ In addition to these limits, section 1B1.10 states that a court must also consider the § 3553 factors and the danger to the public created by any reduction in a defendant’s sentence. Id. at cmt. n.1(B). A court may further consider a defendant’s post-sentencing conduct. Id.

II. Factual Background

The defendant was convicted of distributing oxycodone and possessing with intent to distribute oxycodone and hydrocodone, in violation of 21 U.S.C. § 841(a)(1), (b)(1)(C); distributing hydrocodone, in violation of 21 U.S.C. § 841(a)(1), (b)(1)(E); and possessing a firearm in furtherance of a drug trafficking offense, in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 924(c) [Doc. 20]. At the time of sentencing, the defendant was held responsible for quantities of oxycodone and hydrocodone that yielded a marijuana equivalent of 5.98 kilograms and a base offense level of 14 [Presentence Investigation Report (“PSR”) ¶ 13–17, 24]. The defendant received a two-level reduction for acceptance of responsibility pursuant to section 3E1.1(a), which resulted in a total offense level of 12 [Id. ¶¶ 30–31].

Given the defendant’s criminal history category of V, the defendant’s applicable guideline range was 27 to 33 months' imprisonment [Id. ¶¶ 46, 73]. The defendant was subject to a statutorily-mandated consecutive five-year term for his firearms offense, so his effective guidelines range was 87 to 93 months' imprisonment [Id. ¶¶ 32, 73].

The Court sentenced the defendant to 87 months' imprisonment [Doc. 20], which is within the range produced by the Guidelines. The Court is informed that the defendant is presently scheduled for release on December 29, 2017 [Doc. 28].

III. Analysis

Amendment 782 to the Guidelines, which became effective on November 1, 2014, revised the Guidelines applicable to drug-trafficking offenses by reducing by two levels the offense levels assigned to the drug quantities described in section 2D1.1. U.S. Sentencing Guidelines Manual App. C, amend. 782. Amendment 782 also makes corresponding changes to section 2D1.11. Amendment 788, which became effective on November 1, 2014, as well, identified Amendment 782 as retroactive. U.S. Sentencing Guidelines Manual App. C, amend. 788.

Applying Amendment 782, the defendant's revised base offense level is 12, and affording the defendant the same adjustments the defendant originally received, the defendant's new total offense level is 10. U.S. Sentencing Guidelines Manual § 1B1.10(b)(1). A total offense level of 10 and a criminal history category of V results in an amended guideline range of 21 to 27 months' imprisonment. Adding the 60-month term for the firearms offense yields an effective amended guideline range of 81 to 87 months' imprisonment. Thus, the defendant was sentenced to a term of imprisonment based on a sentencing range that has subsequently been lowered by the Sentencing Commission.

Next, the Court must determine whether a sentence reduction is consistent with applicable policy statements issued by the Sentencing Commission. See U.S. Sentencing Guidelines Manual § 1B1.10. “[T]o satisfy the second requirement, a guidelines amendment must have had the effect of lowering the defendant’s applicable guideline range.” Riley, 726 F.3d at 758 (internal quotation marks and citations omitted). As discussed, that is the case here.

The Court will now consider the § 3553(a) factors in determining whether and to what extent the defendant’s sentence may be reduced. As an initial matter, the Court determines that factors similar to the ones that applied at the defendant’s initial sentencing also apply at this time. Even so, in regard to these factors and in the context of the instant motion, the Court has considered the nature and circumstances of the defendant’s offense(s), and the defendant’s history and characteristics. As reflected in the Presentence Investigation Report, the defendant has an extensive criminal history.

The Court has also considered the need for the sentence imposed to reflect the seriousness of the offense, to promote respect for the law, to provide just punishment for the offense, to afford adequate deterrence, to protect the public from further crimes of the defendant, and to provide the defendant with needed education and training, medical care, or other correctional treatment.² Further, the Court has considered the kinds of sentences available and the sentencing range, the need to avoid unwarranted disparities, and the need to provide restitution to any victims. See 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a). And the Court has considered the danger to the public as the result of any reduction in the defendant's sentence, the seriousness of the defendant's offenses, and the need to protect the public. See U.S. Sentencing Guidelines Manual § 1B1.10, cmt. n.1(B)(ii).

The defendant asserts he has put forth significant effort toward his rehabilitation while serving his sentence. He has earned his GED and completed the Basic Drug Education Program and the Non-Residential Treatment Program. He has also taken a parenting course and attended numerous other courses while incarcerated. See U.S. Sentencing Guidelines Manual § 1B1.10 cmt. n.1(B).

Accordingly, after considering section 1B1.10 and the relevant § 3553(a) factors, the Court finds a reduction in the defendant's sentence to be appropriate. In making this determination, the Court is particularly influenced by the changes in offense levels affected by Amendment 782. The Court has also taken into consideration the risk the defendant poses to public safety, the nature and circumstances of the defendant's offense(s), the defendant's personal characteristics, criminal history, and post-sentencing conduct.

² The Court, however, is not intending to, and is not, imposing or lengthening the defendant's sentence to enable the defendant to complete a treatment program or otherwise promote rehabilitation. See generally Tapia v. United States, 131 S. Ct. 2382 (2011).

IV. Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the defendant's motion [Docs. 22, 27] is GRANTED and the defendant's sentence is REDUCED to 81 months' imprisonment, which shall consist of 21 months on the drug charges plus 60 months on the firearms charge. If this sentence is less than the amount of time the defendant has already served, the sentence shall be reduced to a "time served" sentence. U.S. Sentencing Guidelines Manual § 1B1.10(b)(2)(C).

Except as otherwise provided in this order, all provisions of the judgment dated February 23, 2011 [Doc. 20], shall remain in effect. The effective date of this order is November 2, 2015. U.S. Sentencing Guidelines Manual § 1B1.10(e)(1).

IT IS SO ORDERED.
